

EVERYBODY NEEDS A FRIEND

It might be true we don't need lovers
It might be true we don't need lust
But everybody needs someone
A friend they know they can trust
Everybody needs lovin'
And everybody needs a friend

Old lady on a park bench
My, how she looks alone
Should I go over and speak to her
Maybe invite her to my home
'Cause everybody needs lovin'
' And everybody needs a friend

Some people are so difficult
We just don't understand
Inside a proud and mean shell
Is a frightened, little man
Everybody needs lovin'
And everybody needs a friend

Wherever you travel
Inside every creature you see
A tender heart is crying,
"I'm so lonesome, please care for me."
' Everybody needs lovin'
And everybody needs a friend
